The Scopelitis firm has a long history of assisting its international transportation and logistics clients in a wide array of matters, such as obtaining appropriate licenses and registrations necessary for international operations and the review of contracts and other transactional documentation, including drafting of air waybills, multi-modal bills of lading, and standard trading conditions. The firm routinely counsels clients in international trade compliance, legal due diligence required in connection with acquisitions and other business relationships, freight charge and cargo disputes, and the identification and coordination of foreign legal advisors where expert local professional assistance is needed.

Members of the firm’s international practice group have experience handling transactions involving more than 100 countries. In addition, the Scopelitis firm has long-standing relationships with other highly qualified lawyers in many parts of the world, as well as the ability to call upon nearly 300 legal and accounting firms as a result of its membership in The TAG Alliances, a worldwide professional network of law firms and accountants.
